The FARMERS CORNER

By RALPH H. TAYLOR

Executive Secretary
Agricultural Council of California

California farmers have had so much "bad news" during recent months and years that it might be opportune to single out some of the sunnier aspects of the agricultural picture—and chase the gloom away at least for one column!

The California livestock industry, for example, is in good financial position generally, according to J. A. McNaughton, general manager of the Los Angeles Union Stock Yards. And while no predictions for the future can be made in such a period, the industry is hopeful that a stable market along present price levels can be maintained.

Reports Mr. McNaughton: "Livestock markets in strong position at the close of August and prices showed gains over a year ago on all grades and classes. Improved business and industrial conditions naturally are accompanied by greater publicity than is warranted, however. It should be pointed out, for instance, that while hog prices are the highest so far this year and represent substantial gains over the ruinously low prices earlier in the summer, hogs are still relatively low and pork prices to the consumers are still very reasonable.

"The same might be said of cattle and lamb values. Meat continues to be one of the most reasonable items in the family budget. The important factor is that livestock producers and feeders are now netting prices which represent fair profits, but by no line of reasoning can meat prices be said to be high."

California, according to all reports, is in excellent position insofar as dry range feed is concerned, despite a severe drought in other important livestock areas. This state can take on large supplies of replacement cattle, with the main limiting factor being the cost of such replacements. And while there is ample financing available, financing agencies are advising caution in view of the relatively high prices now in effect.

In most of the range country, federal reports indicate, cattle are in good condition despite the drought, but winter feed prospects are uncertain in view of shortage of water, dry feed and hay. Some forced liquidation of young stock as well as breeding animals is anticipated in large range areas, notably in Northern Arizona, Utah, Idaho, Southern Wyoming, Colorado and the Texas Panhandle. It is still too early, however, to determine the volume of such forced selling and its effect upon the stocker and feeder market.

And taking a look at one of the brighter aspects of the California dairy situation, the United States Department of Agriculture is out with the announcement that California cows, during last year, again led those of all other states in per cow production of milk and butterfat. The average was 6,650 pounds of milk and 253 pounds of butterfat per cow.

California sheepmen, too, have something to be grateful for; they are going into the fall season with an abundance of dry feed and prospects so far for the fall lambing season are more favorable than a year ago. Sheepmen will have lower costs than last year, when they were forced to buy hay and concentrates on account of the very dry season.

There are times when less production means more income, or at least more stable markets, and the California Walnut Growers Association reports:

"California's 1940 walnut crop is now expected to amount to about 47,000 tons, which fortunately is some 6000 tons less than was produced last season. Growing conditions have been good all season to date. Therefore, the size and quality of the nuts is expected to be quite good and possibly above average unless a very severe heat wave is experienced within the next few weeks."

The California Almond Growers Exchange likewise predicts a short crop as compared with 1939, stating that "The California almond crop this season will equal approximately 50 per cent that of last year. The almonds in general will be large and well-developed, however, by reason of abundant rainfall."

Bad news? Of course there's bad news—a frightful holocaust in Europe, which has cast its pall over the whole world; shattered export markets and disrupted trade. But that's another story.

NEW POST OFFICE BUILDING VIEWED BY HUNDREDS AT OPEN HOUSE SATURDAY

Service Started Sunday Following Laying Of Corner Stone And Dedication At Public Exercises On Saturday Afternoon

Placerville's new Post Office Building, at the corner of Main and Bedford Avenue, began serving the community on Sunday morning following public exercises held Saturday afternoon celebrating its completion.

The structure, erected at a cost of $77,000 and costing more than $100,000 including the purchase price of the real estate, was praised as a beautiful and modern office building by hundreds of residents of the community and near vicinity who took advantage of an "open house" Saturday afternoon to inspect the structure.

This was the concluding festival of a public program which opened at 2 o'clock in the afternoon at the front of the building and which had Judge George H. Thompson, of the El Dorado County Superior Court, as master of ceremonies.

The exercises included laying of the corner stone of the building by the Grand Lodge of Masons in California, Leslie Wood, Grand Junior Warden, officiating; and dedication of the building by the Grand Parlor, Native Sons of the Golden West, with Grand President Henry S. Lyon, officiating.

The building has a main floor and basement and is of the approximate height of a story and one-half building, erected of steel and concrete. Main floor entrance fronts on Main street and as one steps into the corridor he finds on his left at the end of the hall the offices of Postmaster Anna Scherrer.

Fronting on the corridor are the money order and registry windows, parcel post window and stamp and general delivery window.

The corridor forms an "L" at the easterly side of the building and this is where the post office boxes are found, and there is an entrance off the corridor at this point into the post office work room where the various carriers have their work cases and where the business of the office is carried on.

A notable feature of this part of the building is that the money order and registry department is separate from the other part of the office, although all departments serving the public have their separate windows fronting on the corridor.

Mail delivered to the building and outgoing mail is received and dispatched from a rear platform, reached by a driveway off Main Street on the east side of the building.

The lower floor or basement of the building contains the engine room, a change room for office employees, two rooms allocated to the Bureau of Entomology, a room for the Internal Revenue Bureau, a suite of two rooms for the Farm Advisor, and various store rooms.

The part of the building open to public use on the basement floor is reached via a stairway descending on the outside of the building on the east side.

Postmaster Scherrer announced Monday Morning that Henry O. Testerman has been appointed fireman-laborer for the building, Holly O. Schell has been appointed janitor and H. G. Dunn has been appointed laborer. All appointments are from the civil service list and the first two are permanent. Mr. Dunn's appointment is at present upon a temporary basis.

The City Police Department has established a ten-minute parking zone on the Main Street front of the building for the convenience of patrons of the office.

Kindergarten Refuge For Fawns

LAKEVIEW, Ore. (UP)—The Hart Mountain antelope refuge east of Lakeview has been turned into a kindergarten for a group of more than 100 agile antelope fawns.

The fawns will be raised and then sent to Washington and Oregon game refuges in various parts of the two states.

They are fed canned milk from a bottle four or five times a day until they are large enough to graze for themselves.

Farm Advisor Lilley, George Volz, agricultural conservation association secretary; and Dan M. Bassi, Louis Endler and Alburn Veerkamp, of the county association committee, were at San Andreas Friday attending an agricultural conservation conference.

MANY ATTEND EXERCISES

Post Office Completion Formally Celebrated On Saturday Afternoon

The exercises marking the completion of the new United States Post Office building in Placerville attracted a large number of residents to the front of the building Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

The program had as master of ceremonies the Hon. George H. Thompson, Judge of the Superior Court, and was made audible to the large number of spectators who were compelled to stand at a distance from the specially built platform, by a public address system installed by Duncan Caldwell.

Following opening of the exercises by the master of ceremonies, the county high school band, directed by Charles W. Ball, played a stirring selection and the invocation was offered by the Rev. Rex A. Barron.

Greetings and a welcome to all present were expressed on behalf of the city by Mayor Charles Molinari; on behalf of the civic and fraternal groups of the community by Paul R. Smith, commander of El Dorado Post No. 119, American Legion; and on behalf of El Dorado County Chamber of Commerce by (Continued on Page 4)

Ranch Worker Hangs Self

John J. Davidson Found Sunday Hanged To Tree In Newtown Vicinity

The body of John J. Davidson, 27, was found near Webber Creek in the Newtown district under circumstances which indicated the man had committed suicide by hanging himself.

Coroner A. J. Orelli reported that an eight-foot length of stock rope had been fastened to the limb of a tree from which the victim apparently jumped with the other end tied about his neck.

The coroner said the man's feet barely touched the ground.

Davidson, native of Oregon, had come here about seven months ago from Medford and had been employed at dairying and other farm work in the vicinity of where the Texas Hill road crosses Webber Creek. Friends reported he had lately been despondent.

He was last seen Saturday afternoon. Sunday morning, attention was directed to the body by the barking of dogs. Neighbors heard the barking and after the hounds continued for some time, a Dr. Davey, who operates a health resort in the vicinity, decided to investigate, discovering the body.

Coroner Orelli was called and the body was taken in the care of Memory Chapel. A message was sent the young man's mother, who resides at Medford, Oregon, and efforts were being made to notify a sister, said to be resident at Los Angeles.

Inquest in the matter is pending.

J. D. Elliot Nominated As Draft Appeal Agent

According to an announcement at Sacramento, the state bar association has nominated Attorney J. D. Elliot, of Placerville, to be the draft appeal agent for El Dorado County.

Presumably, upon confirmation by the President, Mr. Elliot would be the officer under the Selective Service Act of 1940 who would receive the claims of draftees for deferment of exemption under the draft, and present them to the draft board.

WORK STARTS ON NEW DAM

American Lake Project Scheduled To Be Ended About October First

A Forest Service crew went into Desolation Valley Friday morning to build another in the series of check dams being established on lakes in the upper country, and expected to complete the job by October 1.

The newest dam, a part of the progressive program of building check dams as funds become available, is on American Lake, which is below Medley Lakes and not far above Horsetail Falls.

The work is made possible by an allocation of $1,500 of funds by the state Fish and Game commission, granted upon representations to the commission by members of the Mt. Ralston Fish Planting Club and other sportsmen.

The club contributes another approximately $400 in materials and services to the project and Eldorado Forest will contribute an additional $800.

The work is under the general supervision of C. C. Herbert, forest road superintendent.

Check dams are built across the upper ends of lakes and their purpose is to help control the stream flow on the river, and afford added protection to fish life.

RECRUIT TO NAVY RANKS DISTINGUISHED BY HIGH AMBITION

PEORIA, Ill. (UP)—If Lee Russell Hodges, farm boy from Dahinda, Ill., shows the same determination in the service that he used in gaining admission to the navy, he may be an admiral by the time he is ready for retirement.

Hodges recently cycled more than 100 miles in one day to reach a recruiting station when he decided to enlist. He had wanted to join up ever since he was old enough to know the difference between a warship and a row boat.

Young Hodges rode 25 miles from his home to Galesburg in search of a recruiting office. At Galesburg, however, he was told the nearest recruiting office was at Peoria.

Dead-tired but also dead-set on joining, he hopped on his wheel and cycled the 50 miles here where he arrived just as the office was closing for the day.

The officers there, having heard the story of his long trip to enlist, passed up their dinners to put him through the physical and mental examinations.

Hodges passed the tests with flying colors, and was told he would be admitted. He then pedaled 25 miles back to his farm home at Dahinda to await his orders to proceed to camp for preliminary training.

Old Professional Files Searched In Bay State

BOSTON (UP)—The state board of registration in medicine is checking through 17,000 names of physicians and 10,000 names of dentists—many of whom are dead.

The research is required by a new state law which prevents any alien who has not taken out his first papers from practicing medicine or dentistry in Massachusetts.

The records go back to the 19th century.

55 COUGARS RESPOND TO GRID CALL

League Schedule Opens Oct. 19; Preliminaries May Start On Saturday

Fifty-five Cougars answered Coach L. A. Brown's call for football aspirants at the county high school last week and after picking them over carefully, Brown found two former members of the squad.

The "veterans" are Cecil Gibbs, at quarterback, and Ybright, at tackle.

But a football coach looking for material is more thorough than a Scotchman appraising his purse and so Brown took another look and found he had in addition, three boys who report they have played football at other schools.

They are Bill Hutchinson, a half-back, from Nebraska; Homer Cossonia, a full back, from Redwood City; and Bob Voorhies, center, from Texas.

Brown looked at his squad the third time and found that most of them are juniors and sophomores and lacking in the experience which sometimes leads a coach to make rosy predictions at the start of the season.

The squad is hard at it nightly on the new turf at Marcus P. Bennett, Jr. Memorial Park and Monday it was reported tentative arrangements have been made to start the season's play this weekend with a warm up game against Bret Harte high school on the field at the Preston School of Industry at Ione.

The first league game on the Cougar schedule will be October 19. Here's the season's schedule:

Sept. 21, (Tentative) Bret Harte at Preston School of Industry;
Sept. 28, Preston at Preston;
October 5th, Placer Union High School at Bennett Memorial Park;
October 12, Nevada City at Nevada City;
October 19, league game, Jackson at Jackson;
October 19, league game, Sutter Creek at Bennett Park;
Nov. 2, league game, Sonora at Bennett Park;
Nov. 11, San Juan at San Juan.

Crash Breaks Man's Hip

Early-Morning Highway Wreck Sunday Being Probed By Patrol

State Highway Patrol officers are investigating an accident which took place early Sunday morning near Eagle Rock, east of Kyburz, in which a car apparently backed off the highway and down the embankment.

Bill Murray, employed in lumbering near Silver Fork, is at Placerville Sanatorium with a broken hip and had been charged, prior to discovery of the car, with taking the machine, said to be the property of Roy M. Vilas, also of near Silver Fork.

It is reported that the two were together about Saturday midnight and were enroute to Strawberry resort and had reached the vicinity of Eagle Rock when Vilas, who had been driving, halted the car and got out to look for the radiator cap, which seemed to have dropped off.

As he was behind the car some distance looking for the cap, the car passed him, going in reverse, and disappeared. It appeared to Vilas that Murray had run away with the car and he reported the circumstances to the highway patrol. This was about 1:30 o'clock Sunday morning.

Five hours later, it was discovered the car had backed off the highway and Murray was found beside it with a broken hip. He was removed to the Sanatorium, arriving there about ten o'clock, and it was reported Monday that in consideration of all circumstances his condition is favorable.

The highway patrol is continuing the investigation.

Campaign Buttons Mixed
ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., (UP)—Seth Alston, candidate for the Republican nomination for governor of New Mexico, ordered three packages of campaign buttons. He thinks someone made a mistake. When the packages arrived they contained buttons for three Democratic candidates for Congress.

PEAR BUREAU DRIVE OPENS

Regional Offices To Be Established In 3 Eastern Cities

SEATTLE, Wash.—Roy Webster, eastern manager of the Oregon-Washington-California Pear Bureau and C. R. Havighorst, merchandising expert on pear bureau staff, left Friday for eastern markets. They will immediately begin promotional work back of fall and winter pears from the three Pacific coast states.

Their first port of call is Kansas City, Missouri, where they will participate in a food show program at the super-market convention which takes place September 23-25 inclusive; other food shows definitely contracted for are the Washington, D. C. Food Show, Oct. 7-12; Philadelphia Food Show, Nov. 7-16; Florida State Fair at Tampa, Feb. 4-15, inclusive; and a food show at Tulsa, Oklahoma, sometime in October, date not ascertained as yet.

Roy Webster will make his headquarters in Cincinnati, Ohio, and cover the surrounding area thoroughly this season, including Indianapolis, Columbus, and possibly some Kentucky cities. This is virgin territory as far as pear bureau promotion is concerned.

Thomas Boyd, who for three years has assisted Webster in the east, is making his headquarters at Washington, D. C., and will "work" the area including Baltimore, the Virginias, and the northern part of Carolina. Parts of this area have (Continued on Page Three)

BOB BOGGS WILL BE UNABLE TO PLAY FOOTBALL THIS FALL

Placer Junior College, at Auburn, had counted on Bobby Boggs, former Cougar, as a football possibility this fall, but Bob will be unable to attend school, much less play football.

According to Bob's mother, the doctor has advised him to remain out of school at least until the mid-year so that he may properly recover from the effects of an accident suffered during the summer.

Boggs is a patient at Placerville Sanatorium as a result of dropping a keg of nails which fell upon his leg, during his recent employment at the Placerville Fruit Growers' Association. There was no injury to the bone but, it is reported, a vein was ruptured and for several days Bob was pretty sick.

His mother reports he feels very badly about having to miss the fall quarter of school and the football season, but otherwise is getting nicely.

Hardie Tatum will be back at tackle for his second year with the Placerites.

CONSCRIPTION REGISTRATION OCTOBER 16

Married Men To Be Passed In First Draft Call, Army Authorities State

WASHINGTON, (UP)—The President today proclaimed October 16th as registration day under the Selective Service Act of 1940 a few minutes after he had affixed his signature to the unprecedented peacetime conscription measure.

Under the terms of the act, men between the ages of 21 and 35 inclusive will register for military service on October 16th between seven o'clock in the morning and nine o'clock in the evening at their regular election precinct polling places.

Marriage Defers
WASHINGTON, (UP)—All married men, regardless of the financial independence of their wives or children, will be deferred from the first draft call.

Army officials believe for the present all wives and children will be "presumed" to be dependents for the present, regardless of whether they are self-supporting or independently wealthy.

This will reduce the number of men who otherwise would be class one material for the draft. But the army anticipates no difficulty in reaching the 400,000-man goal set for this fall's initial conscription, pointing out that 16,500,000 will register and that 400,000 is only 2.4 per cent of this total.

We join other friends of the couple in all good wishes.

PLYMOUTH FAIR YIELDS APPARENT MURDER AND MAN-HUNT

The Amador County Fair, at Plymouth Friday, Saturday and Sunday, developed a sensation about noon Saturday with the discovery of the battered and semi-clothed body of a woman about 25 years old in the tent of one of the fair employees.

Occupant of the tent was Francis Shannon, 40, an electrician, who has disappeared and for whom authorities are searching.

According to United Press, it appeared that the woman, whose identity has not been established, had been murdered with blows from two blood-stained hammers near the body, which had been stuffed under a cot.

Shannon was said to have been employed by a San Francisco concern charged with the electrical installation for the fair for about three weeks, and is said to be known also as a follower of carnivals.

It is reported that he was seen Friday night, evidently under the influence of liquor, and has not been seen since.

THE OLD HOME TOWN

By STANLEY

Marianne Minear, small-town girl, embittered when her high-school sweetheart deserts her for a girl who is well-to-do and socially prominent, becomes convinced that love is cruel and money everything. She gets a job with a real-estate firm in New York. Leonard Bailey, in the same office, is in love with her, but he is poor, and money is now her object in life. She advances rapidly. Then Harvey, a rich middle-aged bachelor, asks her to marry him, and she accepts. But when she goes with Leonard to an orphan's home to choose children for a Sunday outing to promote a new subdivision, she tries to hide her ring from him.

Marianne nodded and asked on an impulse, "Harv, did you ever see a child that could not smile?" "A child that could not — say, what is this? All the imps smile. What put that idea into your head?"

MARIANNE told him enthusiastically about the orphan children and the Sunlit Acres promotion project. As she talked, Harv listened without much interest, moving about restlessly.

"Don't think much of the plan," he commented tersely. "Those brats will just be in the way, tramp the grass, run through flowers. Forget it, and come on to lunch."

CHAPTER XIX
THEY kept filing past — orphans with quiet steps and questioning eyes. The matron liked to tell about them.

There was Rose Ann, the little girl who always carried her towel because it could be rolled up into a doll. A doll to cuddle when Rose Ann, who had so much love in her heart it just spilled out, cried at night because she was lonesome.

There was Deena, who always had that ragged book under her arm. The only book she ever owned! What if it were ragged and had three pages torn out? She could imagine those three pages. Why, wasn't it the most exciting part? Where the little lost girl found her own mama and papa!

There was Charley — everyone called him "Freck" because his face was so freckled. Freck had been at the orphanage longest and was getting sullen. So many had come and looked at him and taken others. Besides, he wanted a dog. The matron hoped worriedly that Freck would get a good home soon where he could have his dog, before that sullenness carved too deep a place in his heart.

When the last one had filed past, the matron said, "Which ones and how many?" "Why, I'll take..." Marianne answered.

Leonard suddenly stepped forward. "Every last one of them!" vehemently.

"Every one!" the matron echoed joyfully. "How they'll love it! Did you say every Sunday for a month?"

MARIANNE could not concentrate on her work when she returned to the office. She should not have let Leonard get by with that, but inwardly, she was glad that poor little David was going.

And Dick. And Freck. Perhaps he would forget to be sullen. Those children had so little — such a few good times. But Gleason would be furious.

Harv Deslie's voice interrupted her thoughts. She glanced out where, poised and immaculate, he was talking to Jill.

"To Miss Minear in?" It reminded Marianne that she wasn't wearing her ring. She managed to get it on her finger just before Jill sent him in.

"Ready for lunch?" he greeted her.

"That's too bad," Leonard's tone was tinged with disappointment. "I had hoped that you'd be able to help with the kiddies. Jill's going, of course. But that won't satisfy David."

"David!" Marianne queried in surprise.

"Yes. When I told them about the picnic, Freck said you must be a princess, and David believed it."

"Why, that's ridiculous," Marianne began, and stopped.

"No, it isn't. David has a bad time of it with that leg. If it weren't for princesses and rainbows, elves and fairies — don't you see, Marianne?"

She turned away from the question in his eyes.

"I do." Her voice trembled a little.

She saw Leonard's face whiten. "So it's like that? Harv Deslie?" Marianne nodded.

"So you are a princess," Leonard attempted a laugh. "An ice princess with a gold heart."

"Well?" Marianne forced her voice to be firm. "Isn't it what I always wanted?"

SWEEPING REPORTS NEEDED IN PROCEDURE OF MANY BUREAUS

SAN FRANCISCO — Sweeping procedural reforms in the operation of federal and state bureaus, boards and commissions are vitally necessary, according to the annual report of the State Bar's Committee on Administrative Agencies and Tribunals.

The report, compiled by twelve leading California attorneys under the direction of Arthur C. Shepard of Fresno, will be considered by the legal profession at its convention September 25-28 in Coronado, Secretary Claude Minard reported.

"Administrative agencies, abundant in the past, are still springing up like mushrooms and, with minor exceptions, the procedure of each agency continues to have its procedural framework dictated along lines of independent thought with little regard for the legal necessities of other agencies."

Recommendations of the committee for legislative reforms included provisions for written rules available to all persons, an adequate system of court review, separation of the judicial and prosecuting functions, local hearing and decision, and uniform rules of procedure, the report disclosed.

"Increasing pressure on the national administration by the American Bar Association, various state bar groups and other organizations and individuals last year resulted in the appointment of a committee under the attorney general to investigate administrative agencies and suggest improvements," the report stated.

Meanwhile, the California State Bar launched its own investigation of state bureaus in an effort to obtain information needed for the drafting of proposed changes in administrative procedure, Chairman Shepard reported. The report also contained a plea for statewide support of Proposition No. 6 on the November general election ballot. This measure is designed to give the legislature authority to provide a system for judicial review of state bureaus and boards.

THE SPIRIT OF

by JOHN CLINTON

Minute Man windshield cleaning, and all the other little things they do for you.

And when everything was done, the bright young man in charge smiled and said, "Come again, Mr. Clinton."

Gosh, thought I, I'm famous! And I started to think about asking the boss for a slight boost in my stipend because everybody was reading Clinton and I was making Union Oil Company famous.

So I spoke thusly to Mrs. C. who was along. "Humph," she humphed, "You're not famous. They got your name off your Union Credit Card, smarty!"

Pop went the ego! But while a Clinton may be down, he's not out. And again I rise to point out that:

The men who run Union stations are alert guys, and friendly, too. The fact that they call your name off your credit card and smile when they do it, proves it.

And they're the kinda people I like to do business with. Apparently that's the kind of an outfit Union Oil Company is, for they seem always eager to help you—even if it's just a little touch like calling you by name.

So if you respond, as I do, to on-the-level friendliness (with grade-A merchandise thrown in) you ought to get acquainted with the Union station in your neighborhood.

Fair's Pre-Ice Age Bison

They came big back in the pre-ice age days! This is a prehistoric bison restored from skeleton found near Mt. Shasta in California, and now on exhibit in the University of California science exhibit in the Hall of Science at the Golden Gate International Exposition. The exhibit, sponsored by the California Commission for the Exposition, has been one of the great drawing cards on Treasure Island, attracting thousands of visitors of all ages. Some idea of the spread of horns of the mammoth beast is gained by comparison with the size of Miss Betty Reed of Billy Rose's Aquacade, Treasure Island hit show.

SHIPMENT OF ARGENTINE BEEF TO U. S. HELD THREAT TO AMERICAN INDUSTRY OWING TO FOOT AND MOUTH DISEASE DANGER

SAN FRANCISCO — Leopoldo Melo, Argentine delegate to the recent Havana Foreign Minister's Conference, stated in a speech delivered at Buenos Aires, Argentina, that a conversation with President Roosevelt and statements of other administration figures had led him to the conviction that the question of importing Argentine meat would be "solved" after the November elections are over.

Replying to the proposal to ship Argentine beef to the United States, John Curry, secretary of the California Cattlemen's Association, said it would be a dangerous threat to the American livestock industry, because of the prevalence of foot and mouth disease in Argentina. Curry stated:

"Foot and mouth disease exists in every cattle area in Argentina. In 1937, after a visit to Argentina, Harper Sibley, president of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, declared: 'As regards the hoof and mouth disease, I found it widespread throughout the cattle herds of the Argentine, and present intermittently in every area where cattle are raised or fed.'"

"It would be inconceivable to me that our own American Department of Agriculture would consider lifting the quarantine upon any of the areas in the Argentine where beef is raised or fed."

Moreover, according to Sibley, the disease in Argentina, Uruguay and Brazil is accepted as a necessary infection, and as far as he could learn, no efforts were being made to stamp it out.

Outbreaks of foot and mouth disease occurred in California in 1924 and 1929. In the 1924 outbreak, it was necessary to slaughter 58,303 cattle, 28,382 sheep, 21,194 swine, 1,380 goats and 22,214 deer, making a total of 129,958 animals. It is estimated that the direct cost of eradicating this outbreak was $6,151,000, and a reasonable conservative estimate of all collateral damage was two hundred million dollars.

The 1929 outbreak in California was traced directly to Argentine meat. The steamer City of Los Angeles, which had taken on meat supplies at Buenos Aires, Argentina, docked at Wilmington, California, on December 6, 1928, and meat scraps from the boat were taken to a hog ranch. In the following month, foot and mouth disease was found on this ranch.

Foot and mouth disease exists in a great many countries besides Argentina, and the importation of meat from more than sixty countries is prohibited. Argentina has not been singled out by any means.

The United States Livestock Sanitary Association, composed of all the leading veterinary officials of the United States Bureau of Animal Industry, and the sanitary officials of the various states, at its annual meeting in 1935, adopted a resolution declaring that the importation of livestock or livestock products from countries infected with foot and mouth disease may seriously jeopardize the welfare of the livestock industry; and resolving that they go on record as vigorously opposing any modification of existing federal laws governing the movement of livestock or livestock products from any foreign countries harboring foot and mouth disease.

These members of the national veterinary association are undoubtedly well qualified to pass judgment on the harm that would result from Argentine beef importations.

In Great Britain, outbreaks of the disease have occurred in every year, 1922 to 1939 inclusive. Sir Percy Hurd, a member of the house of commons, was quoted late in 1937, as saying:

"The English outbreaks (of foot and mouth disease) show the major sources of infection are marrow bones from Argentine meats, rinds from Polish bacon, and other raw material products from countries infected with the disease."

The British ministry of agriculture has reported that foot and mouth disease can be carried in carcasses or other animal products as well as by live animals.

As late as May, 1939, Secretary of Agriculture Wallace issued an order, declaring that he had determined that the contagious and communicable disease of rinderpest or foot and mouth disease exists in a number of countries including Argentina, and that the importation among other things, of cattle, and sheep, fresh, chilled or frozen beef, veal, mutton, lamb or pork from said countries is prohibited.

At the time of the 1924 outbreak of foot and mouth disease in California, we had a situation where quarantines were set up to keep California products out of other states; motorists were disinfected and fumigated at the borders, industry was seriously injured. Not only did the livestock industry suffer, but practically all other lines of business were seriously affected by that outbreak.

been covered both last year and the preceding year, so that Boyd's work is in the nature of further development.

Mr. Havighorst will conduct a complete "road show" at various points, according to a definite schedule for different areas. Following the super market convention in Kansas City, he will visit Des Moines for several days, thence via Cincinnati and Pittsburgh to Boyd's territory, where he will conduct a series of shows from Oct. 15 to Nov. 15. The following month he will put on the shows in Roy Hazlet's territory.

Hazlet leaves Hood River the first week in October and will be headquartered in Atlanta, Georgia, branching out into points in Alabama (particularly Birmingham), South Carolina, and the three principal Florida cities. Some of this territory was included in last year's field work, so that it will be in the nature of furthering the educational sales work done last year.

After the middle of December, if an additional man is placed in the south (to cover Arkansas, Mississippi), Havighorst will then stage shows in that area, joining Webster in the north after January 15th; otherwise, he will join Webster in late December.

Schedules have been arranged with an eye to the most economical transportation cost, concentration of man-power, and potentialities of markets, the pear bureau office states. Each man is equipped with a moving picture film of the pear industry, a moving picture projector, a Kodaslide machine and slides featuring pears and pear dishes, as well as display material and miscellaneous equipment. Instead of five road shows going simultaneously, as last year, it was felt that one complete road show put on by Mr. Havighorst, who is an expert in that line, would be more effective, the bureau reports, saying that with a business-like schedule in each area that almost as many may be given as last year. The road show is an "evening of entertainment and education" for retailers, featuring winter pears.

TROUBLED MIND EASED AFTER HIKE OF 1,000 MILES

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — Thirty-nine-year old Ralph Foster Clark of Tulsa, Okla., hitch-hiked 1000 miles to clear his conscience, and now with a judge's blessing has no great obstacle to his desire to become a minister.

Clark told Circuit Judge Leonard D. Verder he had come here from Tulsa to clear falsities in a marriage license he obtained in Grand Rapids in 1935, to wed Emilie E. Floyd. He said he had been married long ago in Fairmont, W. Va., but his wife left with their two sons and later, in 1932, she divorced him.

His divorce has been so expensive Clark said, that he tried to keep his whereabouts a secret, and when he obtained a marriage license here in 1935, he gave his name as Ralph Foster, listed a city other than his native home as his birthplace, and swore he had never been married.

"I wanted to become a minister, but I couldn't with this on my conscience," he said.

Clark hitch-hiked here from Tulsa in seven days, stopping along the way to work for food and lodging. After Judge Verder had instructed the county clerk of Kent county to present Clark with a corrected marriage license, Clark set off again for Tulsa with 20 cents in his pocket.

ANCIENT EGYPT DECLARED EXPERT IN WORK OF PROPAGANDA

CHICAGO (AP) — Well-organized national propaganda was in use in Egypt 4000 years ago according to Dr. John A. Wilson, University of Chicago Egyptologist.

In a paper read before the American Historical Association, Dr. Wilson said the ancient Egyptians "had no idea of writing history impartially."

"The priests alone could read," he asserted, "and they built up the pharaoh as a superhuman hero to receive general rewards for their gods."

Dr. Wilson recommended the propaganda of 2000 B. C. as effective because the veil of untruth was penetrated and the real facts discovered.

Recent research has disclosed the military victories of Rameses II and Rameses III in the 12th century before Christ to be mere propaganda, the Chicagoan said.

First Tulsa Oil Well Still Producing

TULSA, Okla., (AP) — Thirty-nine years ago the first oil well in the Tulsa area was brought in as a 100-barrel-a-day producer.

Today the well is still producing, but only about one barrel of oil a day. The well is known as the No. 1 Red Fork. It was drilled by Fred S. Clinton and J. S. Bland of Tulsa on the Sue A. Bland allotment north of the Red Fork river.

the secretary, Wallace M. Ripley.

Members of El Dorado County Boy Scout Troops conducted the flag Raising ceremony while their bugler sounded "To The Colors," and all stood respectfully with bared heads as the high school band closed this portion of the program by playing the national anthem.

Judge Thompson then presented Mr. George Rolfe, post office inspector, of Sacramento, representing the Post Office Department.

Mr. Rolfe spoke briefly of the history of the mail service in the community and made reference to the service rendered the Nation by the Post Office Department. Conveying the greetings of his superiors to those present and to the community, he invited the Grand Lodge of Masons in California to lay the cornerstone of the building.

Mr. Leslie Wood, Grand Junior Warden of the Grand Lodge of Masons in California, acting as the Worshipful Grand Master and assisted by his staff, conducted the cornerstone ceremony.

Articles placed in the corner stone included rosters of the officers and membership of El Dorado Lodge No. 26, F. & A. M., of Placerville Parlor No. 9, N. S. G. W., copies of Placerville newspapers, a roster of county officers and statistics concerning the county and a list of the employees of the Placerville Post Office.

The master of ceremonies then presented Mrs. Anna Scherrer, postmaster, who spoke the general public approval of the new building and made reference to the effort made by civic leaders during a period of several years to obtain a new post office building for Placerville.

In this connection, it was noted that among those who led in the work which insured the erection of the present building was our late former postmaster, Joseph Scherrer, who was succeeded in office following his death by his widow, the incumbent.

Mrs. Scherrer mentioned Euell Y. Gray, J. D. Elliot and Fred Owens are the only surviving former postmasters in the community.

She paid tribute to the cooperative interest of David Evans, construction engineer for the Public Buildings Administration in the erection of the building and graciously acknowledged the presence of Postmaster James R. Wilson, of Sacramento; Postmaster Edward Leak, of Woodland; Mrs. Lempi Kivi Aho, postmaster at Georgetown, and Clarence Scheiber, postmaster at Shingle Springs, and invited inspection of the building by the public at the close of the exercises.

The dedication of the building was conducted by the Grand Parlor of Native Sons of the Golden West. The ceremony was conducted by the Grand President, Henry S. Lyon, assisted by Grand Secretary Joseph T. Regan, of San Francisco; Grand First Vice President Edward Schnarr; and Grand Trustees Richard McCarthy and Eben Smart and other grand officers.

George McKee then contributed a vocal solo, "God Bless America," to the program following which District Attorney Lyon, as orator of the day, gave a short talk in which it was noted that the new structure is a government building, belonging to the United States government and thus to every loyal citizen.

He contrasted the American form of government and its objectives and its achievements with those of other nations of the world and declared that the presence of a number of young people and children in the audience attending the exercises was an indication to the older generation of their interest in perpetuation of the American way of life.

Mr. Lyon included in his remarks reference to the great amount of work done by the last Postmaster Joseph Scherrer to help obtain the new postoffice building for Placerville.

Upon the conclusion of the address, the band played a concluding number and the master of ceremonies called upon the Rev. Harold G. Morehouse, who spoke the benediction and the formal program was concluded.

FOG SHROUDS CHANNEL AS LONDON BAGS 185 NAZI PLANES

DOVER, (UP)—Pea soup fog closed in over the English Channel today after an artillery duel between German and British long range guns.

By JOE ALEX MORRIS
U. P. Foreign News Editor

Adolf Hitler's invasion plans puzzled Great Britain today as another favorable weekend passed with no sign of a German army and a record breaking bag of 185 German planes shot down by the Royal Air Force.

Some wondered whether the threat of a German overwater attack was as imminent as had been believed.

One factor was plain. The RAF had not been wiped out—a condition which even German quarters have suggested is logical to expect before the great invasion attempt is to be made.

Britons had waited for an invasion over the weekend. Tides along the coast were high, the moon was nearly full. Before these conditions coincide again the equinox will have passed and the English Channel and North Sea are likely to be very heavy.

EDWARD A. PATRIQUIN GRANTED YEAR'S ARMY LEAVE

El Dorado County high school announced Monday that Edward A. Patriquin, teacher in chemistry and popular science, has been granted a year's leave of absence to join his regiment of the Coast Artillery, California National Guard, which has been called into service.

Mr. Patriquin is a second lieutenant. In his absence, his classes will be taught by Charles Shepherd, a Stanford University graduate and former instructor in the high school at Portola.

PARAMOUNT STARLETS IN PERSON AT EMPIRE ON TUESDAY

Out of Hollywood to the Empire Theatre for Tuesday only blazes Hollywood's greatest juvenile review—the "Paramount Starlets of 1940," featuring the "Hughes Foursome."

The sensational quartet has played many outstanding roles with Hollywood's major Motion Picture Studios, as well as having appeared on various radio programs. They are soon to be featured on "Starshots," a program starring young Walter Tetley, "Waldo" of the Fred Allen series.

Wally Boag, acting master of ceremonies, is a twenty-one year old lad with the educated feet, made famous in George White's Scandals.

Meta Crawford, concert pianist, has been around the world eight times, which has brought her so much acclaim abroad, as well as here.

Velera Berton, Louisville, Kk., red head, added much spice to "Broadway of 1940" and "Waikiki Wedding."

May Louise Fowler, our eighteen-year-old Hollywood blonde, has just returned from an extended tour of the Hawaiian Islands, and will bring you her interpretation of the real Hawaiian Hula, as danced in "Waikiki Wedding."

Victor Roberts and Mary Moore, Hollywood's outstanding Juvenile Ballroom team, will give you their interpretation of Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers. These two young people have played in "Starmaker," starring Bing Crosby, and Shirley Temple's picture, "The Bluebird."
